This was the first time since the enactment of the national prohibition act that a defined prohibition policy arrived at by the minor judiciary, the police, and the prosecuting forces of the city had been formally announced. It was in response to a public demand by the prohibition director of the largest city in the country for police action under a State law.

The commissioner's letter did not contain the positive refusal that his statement amplifying it did. In the letter he reminded Director Campbell that his agents possess the same power as police officers with respect to the apprehension and prosecution of persons charged with violation of the public nulsance act.

Complaints Returned.

He said the magistrates and district attorneys were ready to act on the complaints made by Federal agents, but he returned the complaints and told Campbell it was his duty to investigate the complaints, and cause to be instituted in the State or Federal courts the appropriate criminal prosecutions.

It was disclosed by Commissioner Whalen that Campbell had sent to the district atterney copies of all the complaints he sent to the police. These complaints were all discussed at the conference on which the policy of the city was decided.

My family and a friend came after fine at the end of a week. They had seen and heard enough on a previous visit to admit that Gailinger was not the place for me—a man of one of the professions, accustomed to a comfortable flome, wholesome food and plenty of it, and social contacts with cultured persons. And so, not having been committed for an indefinite period by the authorities, I was taken away and, to a rest sanatorium that seemed like a seventh heaven in comparison to the municipal hospital—named after the late Senator Jacob H. The breakfast slung before me at Gallinger "the morning after" was nothing like home or club. Barred from Beds in Day.

During my week in Gallinger I had been surrounded daily, in corridor, dormitory and elsewhere, by a motley aggregation of unfortunates who suffered mentaly or physically. There were insane persons, dope addicts, crying and jabbering idiots, silent men, including a Chinaman, who never spoke unless spoken to; degenerates who brought degenerate talk even to the meal tables, sick old men and boys (at least one of whom died while I was there) who lay and squatted on the floor during the daytime because the dormitory with its beds was locked; and almost every type of down-and-outer.

There was no segregation by classes, diseases, or stations in life. When I informed an official of the hospital that I could neither eat nor since p amid a such surroundings, that I was unaccustomed to the flithy or linsane talk I had to hear, it was suggested that Congress should appropriate more money for Gallinger and maybe I could aid in bringing that about. "Toasting did it"-

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes-Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive acrids (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

TEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern I science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended-"IT'S TOASTED."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING"-LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process-removes harmful corrosive acrids (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos-the Cream of the Crop-are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°-maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

Right Shoulder of Victom Is Dislocated as Sphere Clears Fence.

FANS, UNAWARE, CHEER

Washington baseball fans cheered Leon "Goose" Goslin, star er of the National yesterday fternoon as his sixteenth home run the season sailed over the right Afternoon as his sixteenth home run of the season salled over the right field fence, a far more serious scene was enacted in the rear of $23 U street northwest, where Mrs. Altis Oram, colored, was struck by the ball and seriously injured.

The woman, according to police reports, was hanging clothes on a line in the yard of her home when the ball, solidly hit by the 1928 American League batting champion, struck her on the right shoulder, dislocating that member. She was treated by her family physician who lives in the same block of U street.

Goslin's home run, which caused the injury to the woman, came with Rice on base and tled the score at 2-all after the Red Sox had taken the lead in the first inning with a pair of tallies. It was a real clout which carried over the right field barrier with some to spare. Although near the end of its couries, the ball struck the woman with considerable force and she was knocked to the ground by the impact.

Fans in Griffith, Stadium were unaware of the accident caused by Goslin's circuit wallop, and it was not until the game had progressed several innings that the big outfielder was informed of the damage which had resulted from his homer. He immediately sent a mesage of sympathy to the woman.

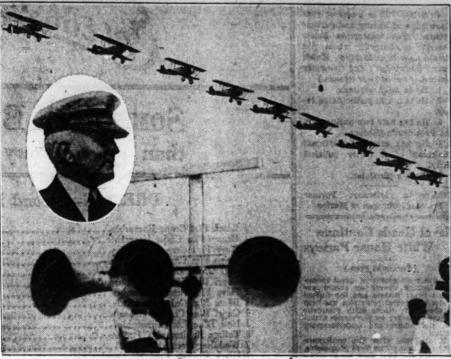

Police announced that there would be no action against Goslin as the injury to the woman was beyond his control. Officials held that the "Goose" in swinging for a home run was simply fulfilling his duty to the club he represents.

One of the most interesting events was, a demonstration of the autogyro airplane by Juan de la Clerva, a Spanlard, its inventor. De la Clerva took the auto-gyro into the air before the grandstand as easily, as any other plane.

Cierva ascended high and then turned off the motor. The autogyro slowly sank to the ground upright and landed gently and safely.

Other events on the program included flights of gliders towed by airplanes and automobiles, parachute jumps, maneuvers by Army, Navy and Marine Corps planes and several closed-course races. street northwest.

Most of the money taken was in the form of checks made out to the company by various individuals. Banks and business houses have been asked to be on the lookout for the stolen checks, and to hold those attempting to cash them. Entrance was gained to the furniture store by jimmying a door, it was reported, and a safe was broken open with a crowbar.

Lajor E.E.Aldrin in spectacular flight from Turin to Paris demonstrates endurance of "Standard" Motor Oil

> It was blazing hot in Turin when Major Aldrin gave his Lockheed Vega Monoplane the gun. And was off. As the eagle flies - straight up and over the Alps. Bitter biting cold.

Straight into the heart of a raging blizzard. Then up 15,000 feet to escape it. Colder yet. Yet the big Wasp motor never missed a beat all the way to Paris.

To Paris in three hours and twenty minutes-twelve hours and forty minutes faster than the fastest train. The flight was made with "Standard" Motor Oil, preferred by Major Aldrin because on previous flights in America he had always used it and never found it wanting. When in Italy he filled his crankcase with "Standard," his lubrication problem was solved. He knew that "Standard" Motor Oil could withstand the searing engine temperatures and conquer all extremes of heat and cold.

The same reliability that stood by Major Aldrin when his plane flew at 15,000 feet, is inherent in every gallon of "Standard" Motor Oil that goes into your automobile. Used with "Standard" Gasoline or Esso, you have an unbeatable combination is the fact that the four workingmen had not left.

In the meantime, while everything in the building was quiet, the four crooks in the storeroom behind the clock started to work to tear away the brick and stone wall that separated them from the $10,00,000 in gold in the Subtreasury.

The cluief crackman had marked the spot well, and he was satisfied that the gold was exactly opposite the place where they started to work. Needless to say they had to go shout the business with great caution. Fortunately for them they had been able to carry a full set of tools into the building. But the hammers they worked with were padded and they talked in whispers.

GIBSON AND DAWES.

Ambassador Hugh Gibson, who headed the American delegation at the tripartite Geneva conference, and Am-Secretary Stimson's instructions, are in parisons. disagreement over basic principles in the matter of naval disarmament. They do not see eye to eye when it comes to assessing the value of apparent concessions which the British admiralty, through Premier Ramsay MacDonald, has advanced as a basis of preliminary discussions. Their failure to agree, coupled with the repercussions which the Palestine outbreaks have had on the British people, has brought a decided reaction in disarmament discussions.

It has been clear for some days that the American position on disarmament, as understood by Secretary Stimson, has been drifting far afield from the position which Mr. Gibson took at Geneva, and the question has arisen as to whether the United States now proposes to abandon the principles which Mr. Gibson fought for under President Coolidge's instructions.

That Mr. Gibson had the solid support of American naval authorities, as well as the support of President Coolidge and the American people, in his opposition to British proposals at Geneva is now a matter of history. The viewpoint of American naval officers has not changed. It would be embarrassing to Mr. Gibson and to naval experts on an American delegation, to appear at a future conference and be compelled to admit that they were all wrong at Geneva, and that agreement on British terms should have been reached.

America insisted upon parity in cruiser strength at Geneva, and Mr. Gibson obtained Britain's consent to actual parity in so far as the relative strength of the two cruiser fleets was concerned. Disagreement came over allocation of 10,000 ton cruisers carrying 8-inch guns, of vital importance to guns, of particular importance to the British. But the British delegation agreed that there would be actual parity in cruiser strength.

In his opening statement, Mr. Gibson enumerated four basic points at Geneva, which included the following:

That the methods and principles of limitation set forth in the Washington Treaty are both practical and effective and should be ex-tended to all categories of combatant vessels of the three powers.

Later in the same address, Mr. Gibson drove this point home a second time when he said:

The American suggestions are based on the following considerations: That the ratios and principles of the Washington Treaty be applied to cruisers, destroyers and submarines.

To make assurance doubly sure that there would be actual and immediately effective parity, Mr. Gibson made a third direct reference to this all-important. point when he said:

The tonnage allocations suggested by the American delegation as a basis of discussion are the following:

Cruiser class: For the United States 250,000 to 300,000 tons. For the British Empire 250,000 to 300,000 tons.

Replying for Great Britain, W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty, enumerated eleven points to which Britain was declared to be solemnly pledged. The seventh point in Mr. Bridgeman's statement was as follows:

Acceptance of the existing ratio 5-5-3 for cruisers of 10,000 tons displacement carrying 8-inch guns.

America had scrapped capital ships

1921-22, in order to bring about naval fate of the Constitution, the Hartford and parity. Gibson demanded immediate, other famous American ships gives no en actual cruiser parity at Geneva.

Now it develops that the program which Secretary Stimson has in mind does not contemplate actual parity with Great Britain in cruisers. Britain is not to be asked to scrap cruisers. Overwhelming British superiority in cruiser strength is to remain undisturbed under the new proposed scheme, but an effort is to be made to persuade the British government to forego certain replacements when cruisers become obsolete. so that "approximate parity" may be reached in 1936 or later. Anything may of course happen by that time, but meanwhile Great Britain is to be conceded a greater superiority than Mr. Bridgeman ever dreamed of asking at Geneva.

In order to avoid tonnage comparisons which would show Britain's cruiser superiority at a glance, a system of counting 6,000-ton cruisers and other small cruisers on a fictitious tonnage be preserved intact, with its guns, instrubasis is said to be under consideration. Britain's small cruisers would be classed, not on their actual tonnage, but on a fractional part of it. By this device Britain's great number of small cruisers would be called "defensive" cruisers, while the 10,000-ton cruisers | Congress? in which America is interested would be called "offensive" cruisers. The net result would be to allow Britain's cruiser strength to be actually far bassador Dawes, who is acting under greater than would appear in the com-

Mr. Gibson devoted his concluding speech at Geneva to riddling this British suggestion. He said:

The American delegation can not but feel that every warship pos-sesses essential offensive characteristics and that no ship is built for the sole purpose of defending itself against attack. We can not follow the reasoning which attributes to 6-inch-gun cruisers a purely defensive role.

Obviously the differences between Ambassador Dawes and Ambassador Gibson are not because of a clash in their views of national defense, but are caused by a change of policy in the State Department. At Geneva the American delegates stood solidly upon a principle that safeguarded American national defense. Apparently Ambassador Dawes is faithfully following instructions which give a political aspect to the present conversations with Great Britain, in an effort to reach an agreement which may bring about parity, not now, but in the uncertain future. It is not surprising to learn that the two ambassadors are finding it impossible

THE NEAR-EAST UPRISING.

All reports from the Near East are ominous. Moslem uprisings are reported in the countries bordering on the Holy Land, all fanned to fury by the events in Palestine. Both the Arabs and the Jews accuse the British authorities of negligence, and British public opinion is sharply arraigning the Baldwin government for permitting the situation to reach the stage of wholesale massacres. The London Times declares that "there must be prompt and searching investigation into the responsibilities for the outbreak, both of the criminals themselves and of those we placed in authority in Palestine." It adds that "the British public and the public of all nations who have citizens in Palestine have I was without fire and seeing that winter was Americ. and smaller cruisers carrying a right to know the more immediate and re- coming and that I could not support myself note reasons for the lamentable events of the past few days."

The United States, taking note of the massacre of American citizens, is in duty bound to hold the British government strictly to account for its failure to maintain order in Palestine. The British government voluntarily assumed responsbility for governing that country. The inefficiency of its authorities directly encouraged the violence and bloodshed. All Americans suffering loss are entitled to indemnity. The families of the murdered American boys have just claim to heavy damages against Great Britain, and the United States Government should press these claims to a prompt settlement.

When American citizens are subjected to hardships, dangers, losses and death through misgovernment in foreign lands the Government has a right to demand assurances that hese conditions shall cease. and killing of Americans in Mexico more than once brought the two governments into sharp onflict, and many Americans held that their Government has been entirely too dilatory in holding Mexico to account. The fury of he Palestine outbreaks gives a more mexacing aspect to the situation, by indicating the greens. workings of a vast conspiracy that may envelop in flames all Moslem countries under British influence or domination. Thousands of Americans are in those regions, and they re beyond the reach of protection from their own Government. American warships hand they would be debarred from action on en assumed by the British government Therefore the measures which Britain may now take to restore and maintain order are of vital importance to the United States.

TO SAVE THE OLYMPIA.

The threatened destruction of Admiral Dewey's flagship Olympia has brought an offer from Edward W. Harden, of New York, to purchase the ship and present it to the public, on condition that it be maintained in Washington as a permanent memorial. Unless Congress is willing to order the Navy Department to preserve the vessel in Wash ington and make it accessible to the public, remembrance I will keep of it wherever I a loss to the taxpayers of $330,000,- Mr. Harden's generous offer should be ac-000 at the Washington conference of cepted. The indifference of Congress to the couragement to the idea that it will preserve the Olympia without private cooperation. The Constitution, the most glorious of all American warships, has been saved by individuals, and not by Congress.

There is unanimous approval of Mr. Harden's plan to keep the Olympia at the National Capital. Here it will be open to the inspection of citizens from all parts of the Union, and it will be in an environment that emphasizes the most glorious chapters of American history. The Olympia conveyed the body of the Unknown Soldier from France, and it would be well if the vessel were moored here, within sight of the Unknown Soldier's tomb and the tomb of Admiral Dewey in Washington Cathedral.

If Congress should be indifferent to the fate of the Olympia it seems probable that Mr. Harden's offer would provide a solution of the question.. The public has entered a strong protest against the scrapping of that heroic vessel. A small sum, perhaps only $15,000 a year, would suffice to maintain the vessel. Should Congress refuse to provide this sum, Secretary Adams would be warranted in asking the public to assume this part of the burden. The vessel should ments and full equipment, and should be open to the public without charge.

Duke University. . We struck on the shoal of La Serrana. * * * The ship broke in four pieces. I jumped into the sea and swam to the islands. We ate raw meat for almost two months and drank the blood of the seals and sea cows that came to the island.

As some thought that that life was sterile as your grace will see, they determined to build a raft, and we all built one out of timbers that the sea had brought to the After they were lashed together island. with sealskins and cords of the same seals three got on the raft and three of us stayed behind, two men and a boy. Four days after those of the raft had left one of the three who had stayed, whose name was Moreno de Malaga, seeing that there was no water or fire and that it was the month of August (for up to that time we had been delayed, as I have said above), began to eat his arms, and from several bites that he gave himself he died raving.

When I saw that my companions had left and that another had died and that only the boy was left for a companion, I made shift to find some remedy by which I might sustain myself. And so I began to dig with tortoise bones in various parts of the island to see if there was any water, and because the land was so little in the midst of the gulf I found the water everywhere as salt as that of the sea. I drank this water several times mixed with the blood of the seals. And in this time it never rained so that I might be succored by water from heaven. And I made shift, in case it should rain, to dig pits in the sand and I took many seal skins and lined the pits and when God willed that it should rain, which was in the month of October. I caught some water in the pits and in a few snail shells of the sort that there are called cobos. The water in the pits lasted a very short time, because it sank in the When it rained I was so eager to drink that I jumped into the water in such fashion that I cut my arms and legs very badly, and the remedy I found for it was to mix the water with blood.

For two months after landing on the island without fire I set about making a raft no I went to the place where the ship had sunk (I mean where it may have sunk) and I made an anchor out of a stone to tie the raft in a fathom and a half of water, and by diving several times I found a pebble with which I made fire. And I was in such a state that only the mercy of God and the fire restored my life to me. And on another very small island, which is to the leeward of where I was, there were two men from another ship that had been lost, and they, seeing the fires, came on a raft to where I was, and they were with me five

We made a house covered with skins, where we took shelter, and our clothing and bedding were of sealskins. During five months of the year we dug turtle eggs from the sand close to the sea. These we dried and prepared to eat, and we found them a good food for the winter. Sometimes we ate the seacrows that came there, and when we did not there was nothing else except some roots of a plant that seemed somewhat like

Three years after the others had left and eight years since we had come there, God permitted that we should be rescued, and one day, on St. Matthew's eve at noon, we saw a ship under sail, and we made a very great smoke on one of our towers. And when those on board the ship saw us they lowered a boat and the master and the sailors landed, account of the responsibilities that have and the master, whose name is Joan Bautista Jinoves, a citizen of Triana, took testimony by a notary of everything he saw. Thence we came to Havana, where it was the will of God that my lord, Don Pedro de Alvarado, the adelantado, was, and he noticed our manner of dress and was informed by the master of our life, and he forthwith received us as his and provided us with necessities and he supports the other in the Indies and me in Spain, as your majesty sees.

This is not so extensive as I could wish pecause it was impossible to retain a just remembrance of everything without writing it down as it happened. Receive, your majesty, the will I have to serve you and the be. I kiss your majesty's hands.

Changes in Radio Law Are Urged

Counsel Webster Proposes Paris.) Amendment Eliminating Sectional Representation on Commission; Defines Station Also.

Amendments to the radio act of Amendments to the radio act of 1927 which eliminate sectional representation on the Radio Commission and would modify the provision which demands equal allocation of broadcasting licenses and frequencies among the five zones are proposed by Bethuel M. Webster, general counsel of the commission, in a letter addressed to finator James Couzens, chairman of the committee on interstate commerce, and made public yesterday. The letter also contains proposals for changes in the Couzens bill for the creation of a communications commission.

The amendments proposed are intended to remedy specific defects encountered in the administration of the radio act of 1927, and they also embody the personal opinion of Mr. Webster. No stand is taken for or against the creation of the communications commission.

While the suggested amendments maintain the essential features of the cone system. Mr. Webster proposes to maintain the essential features of the zone system, Mr. Webster proposes to enlarge the power of the President to permit the appointment of any qualified citizen of the United States as a member of the Radio Commission.

As to the modification of the terms of the Davis amendment, which requires equal allocation of broadcasting licenses and frequencies among the several zones, Mr. Webster says:

* * "The commission shall make such distribution of licenses, frequencies, hours of operation and power among the several States and communities as to provide an equitable distribution of good radio reception among the same."

In reference to the antitrust provisions of the radio act of 1927 and the Couzens bill, Mr. Webster's proposed amendments indicate he feels that a sufficient deterrent against the formation of combinations in restraint of trade and monopoly is contained in the Sherman act, the Clayton act, and the Federal Trade Commission act. He favors the elimination of section 17 of the act, which forbids certain agreements between and mergers of radio and wire companies. If it is retained, he says, it should be clarified so as "to show specifically its application to civil as well as criminal guilt."

If Mr. Webster's proposals are followed, the Couzens bill will include a provision for the transfer of the functions and the property of the Radio Division of the Department of Commerce to the Commission on Communications. Such a provision would result in giving the commission the power to license station operators, to assign call letters, and to carry on a radio inspection and police service.

CUBISTIC lines and angles are beginning to show an important influence on miladi's shoes. Not as a whole, of course, but on a certain number of intriguing models.

This finds expression in three ways—at the toe, on the heel and in the incrustations and applications.

Perhaps it will be hard for you to imagine a square-toed shoe or evening slipper being graceful—but the fact remains that some of these models are altogether charming.

But, of course, they are not square-toed in the same unlimaginative way as a man's shoe. They are of slender, graceful line, and just the verticest tip of the toe is chopped off square. of the toe is chopped off square, smack! like that. And while it is only a passing novelty, naturally we insist that as such it is delightful.

Other suggestions offered in the letter are:

"No vacancy in the commission shall impair the right of the remaining commissioners to exercise all the powers of the commission. A majority of the members thereof shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business."

That a provision be made for radio experts in the engineering division of the commission, which has heretofore had to rely on experts borrowed from other departments and bureaus. It might be well to require licenses for Government stations subject to the power of the President to set aside or modify any action of the commission with reference to such stations. And heels! We have had jewelled heels, metal heels and every other sort, but always in pretty much the same shape. But this season we have exquisite evening pumps with heels, which are not round but cut with three, four or five facets, like a sort of prism. The three-sided heels are a bit ungainly, but some of the four and five-sided models creextremely graceful and agreeably novel.

employed at a single location for the purpose of radio communication. If remote control is employed, all the apparatus used in connection therewith shall be considered to be part of the station. A radio station license shall authorize the use and operation of such apparatus on a frequency or frequencies and with power therein designated."

Marynowitzky gowns are the bane of our pen-life—they are always so lovely and so impossible to illustrate because, as you know, their charm depends always upon color and color combinations!

The teagown we illustrated for you today is in shades of darkest green on the sleeves, a lighter than that green in incrustations, and then still lighter green forming the body of the garment.

We have made something very special in store for you and I don't want you to miss the announcement about it at the end of next week. It's a color chart, very, very simply executed, which will give you a basic knowledge of color that will be ever so valuable to you in every phase of your life.

By the way, you are missing some new and interesting ideas if you are not reading the Dare fashion letter in The Sunday Post.

A T Auction Bridge the bidding of the above hand would be passes by South and West and three Spades by North, which would obtain the contract. At Contract Bridge South would pass initially and East and West would pass very time; North would bid two Spades. South three and North would jump to four. East in both games would be tempted to double North's original Spade bid informatorily as he has great strength in the other 'hree suits; but it would be unsound for him to do so because the double would force West to a high bid, and it is dangerous for an Aceless player to force a bid of three or four from a partner who already has passed. When the hand was played with North the Declarer, East opened with the King of Clubs. North won, led a threenth Diamond can be cashed if South has an entry. Consequently Declarer should have adopted one of two methods: (a) on the first round of Diamonds he should have played small from dummy, permitting the adversaries to win that trick cheaply, and then have tried the finesse on the second round; or (b) having taken the finesse on the first round of Diamonds, he should have led a small Diamond from dummy, losing the second Diamond trick, but keeping the second Diamond trick, but keeping the Ace for the third round. Either of these plans would have given him game.

That the superiority of the American radio receiving set has reached European countries is evidenced by the fact that just as soon as the Graf Zeppelin landed at Lakehurst, N. J., on the start of its epoch-making circle of the globe, Herr Max Pruss, navigator of the dirigible, got into touch with the New York office of the Grigsby-Grunow Co. in regard to buying a Majestic set for the trip. The set will later be installed in his home in Friedrichshafen.

Capt. Knute Eckener purchased a Majestic set on the first trip to America. On the second visit he told Grigsby-Grunow officials that he was highly pleased with its performance.

CALL FUNDS 9 PER CENT

a wave of profit-taking swept through the market, and much of the day's advance was lost. Call money renewed at 9 per cent, the highest since early in the month, and was steady at that figure, but firm money over the end of the month has been anticipated. The menth has been anticipated. The profit-taking appeared to have been prompted by expectations of another large increase in brokers loans, to be announced tomorrow afternoon, and forecasts of heavy liquidation before the Labor Day holiday.

It was announced after the session that the market will close on Saturday, making the holiday three days long. With mounting carrying charges, many traders are disinclined to carry their holdings over this period

The weekly car loadings figures, showing large gains over recent years, in addition to further favorable July earnings statements, added fire to the faire for the rails. The weekly steel trade reviews reported some further slackening of activity, but Iron Age and, "The lull in demand is regarded as merely the seasonal expectation that has come much later in

The decline in mill operations has been slight, and they are still far above last year at this time. Iron Age added that ingot production for August should show but a slight reduction from July, and that the present volume of output should hold fairly well for another month, by which time the trend of fall business will have become apparent.

Such leading carrier stocks as Pennsylvania, New York Central, Norfolk & Western, and Union Pacific mounted around 5 points each to record levels, and Atchison sold up more than 8 points, to a record price about 292; but closed at 289. Lackswanna moved up about 5 points, to a new peak, on rumors that important banking interests may seek to acquire control of the open market. It later lost most of its gain in realizing.

Others at New Peaks.

Erie, St. Paul, Baltimore & Ohlo, Nickel Plate, and Chicago & North-western were among others reaching new peaks. Pere Marquette was a higher filer, soaring 17½ points, to a new top, at 280. Continental Insurance, said to a large holder of rail stocks, was also carried to new high ground.

U. S. Steel soid up a few points, then reacted and closed steady. Some profit taking appeared in the cils, but Pan America B reached still a higher peak, and Transcontinental was sent to a new high, at 1514, in a huge turnover. Motors were fairly firm, but the coppers were inclined to sag.

Special to The Washington Post.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 28.—With startling suddenness the news was flashed on Pittsburgh baseball fans today that Manager Donie Bush, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, had resigned his position and that Coach Jewel Ens had been appointed in his place for the remainder of the season. The resignation, made upon the return of the team from its Eastern trip, was accepted by President Barney Dreyfus, who this morning announced the appointment of Ens.

While no official word has been forthcoming from the Pirate owner as to the reasons for Bush quitting his job, friends close to the latter here have for some days been predicting some move that would change his status with the club. It was stated that Bush, disgusted with the behavior of certain players on the club's Eastern trip and the lackadisical manner in which others have been performing on the field, sought permission to discipline the offenders but that President Dreyfuse refused to sanction such action.

Since then, the back stopper has been used regularly and has shown himself to be a mighty nifty player. Not only is Spencer hitting harder than when he first ioined the club but he also has handled his pitchers well and has shown that he knows what it is all about while working behind the plate. His clever blocking of the plate when Regan tried to score in the eighth on Tuesday sweet the game for the Nats as the runner appeared to have Rice's peg beaten. It was Spencer's single which broke a 2-2 deadlock in the fourth yesterday.

Nats, Outhit, End Seesaw Game With 3-Run Rally.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

A NOTHER one of those "dog-eat-dog" contests was staged at the Griffish Stadium resterday between the Nationals and Red Sox, and again the Washington Club won, this time by a 7-to-4 count. Incidentally, it was the Nats' fourth straight victory over the Carrigans and Pitcher Myles Thomas' fifth triumph in a row. Thomas fifth triumph in a row. Thomas granted twelve hits, which was one more than the Nationals were able to obtain from the combined offerings of Milton Gaston and Bill (Beverly) Eayne, but he managed to keep the allen bingles further separated than did the enemy patcher.

The game was a thriller from the start until the eighth, when the Nats broke a 4-all deadlock with a three-run rally, which gave them the three-run rally, which gave them the victory and which sent Gaston, who tolled here last year, to the showers before a single out was made. Not only did the score constantly shift, with the Nats overcoming an alien two-round lead in the first, going ahead in the fourth, increasing their advantage in the fifth, and seeing it wiped out in the seventh, but there were any number of great plays made.

Hero Role. Goose Goslin was the hero of the game. He cracked out a home run, his sixteenth of the season, with Rice on first in the opening round, and came through with two singles later in the game, in a faition to making a fine catch to end the Sox'e sighth, with Catcher Berry, rousting.

THE bodies of the new Ford are unusually strong and sturdy because of the extensive use of steel—a point worth remembering in these days of heavy traffic.

Other safety factors are the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, the reliability of the fully enclosed six-brake system, and the way the new Ford "holds-the-road." There's no swaying or shimmying even at high speeds.

NAVAL HOSPITAL DEFEATS BAPTISTS, 5-4, IN SERIE

Sailors' Late The Boy Who Made Good Rallies Win Contest

Hospital Nine Shares Series Lead With Pullman Club.

Roberts Wins Thrilling Duel From Womersley.

THE Naval Hospital Nine barely nosed out the Calvary Baptist Team, 5 to 4, in a thrilling seesaw battle in the City series being waged on the Terminal grounds resterday by scoring two runs in the ninth, and overcoming a one-run lead held by the Baptists, and then squelching a threatening Churchmen rally to end the proceedings. The victory ties the Hospital Nine with Pullman for the lead.

victory ties the Hospital Nine with Pullman for the lead.

A costly error by Davidson in the opening inning, when he dropped a throw from Berger, which was followed by a double to the center field corner by Miller, gave the Naval lads the first run of the contest. The game then resolved into a pitchers' battle, with the honors even until the seventh frame, when the Baptists hopped on Roberts' offerings to garner three tallies and take a momentary lead. In this inning, Bowman walked as a starter, took second on Davidsons hard single to right and scored the tying run when Darne dropped a looper single into right field. Davidson took third on this play, Darne advanced to second on a short passed ball. On the next play, Howk, the Navy catcher, called for a pitch-out, but his strategy failed when Forrest stepped across the plate and laid down a perfect squeee, scoring Davidson. When King, the initial sacker, held the ball, Darne kept on toward home and was safe by digt of a perfect slide.

Wormesley's Wildness Helps

Wormesley's Wildness Helps
Hospital Nine.

A wild streak by Womersley in the next frame proved of great assistance to his rivals in tying the score. With one gone in the eighth, Luckie singled to center and advanced on a wild pitch. Doc Hicks walked, and when the wiry portsider of the Baptists threw wildly into center field in an effort to catch Luckie off second, Luckies scored, while on Forrest's momentary fumble in the outfield Hicks sped on to third, from where hescored when Big Miller uncorked his second timely bingle of the fray, to again the the score.

The contest again seemed lost for the fighting Sallors when Womersley got a single when his bounder hopped over Hicks' head, and Bowman's damaging double down the right field line scored Hilleary, who had forced Womersley on the previous play.

But the Naval Hospital team was not to be denied, and won the game in the ninth on a single by Schuster. Howk's sacrifice, Roberts' ordinary single to center that bounded away from Forrest for a triple, and King's timely single. The Sallors them proceeded to fill the bases, but Ray Davidson, who had succeeded Womersley on the mound at this stage, applied the brakes and no further scoring took place.

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Aug. 28.—Staunton's defense went to pieces in the eighth inning of today's Augusta County League post season series and Weyers Cove won, 14 to 11. When the Cavemen came to bat in the first of the eighth inning, Staunton was leading, 11 to 6 and it looked like the locals had the second game clinched. Staunton defeated the Cavemen yesterday, 4 to 2. Four or five errors and about the same number of free trips to first gave Weyers Cave eight runs before three men were out. Staunton did not score in the ninth. Eight pitchers participated in the battle for Staunton. The batteries: Staunton, Stephens, Cook, Summers, Burgess, Brown and Moore; Weyers Cave, Whitehead, Long, Crum and Baer. The third game will be played here tomorrow.

HORSE SHOW DRAWS WARRENTON THRONG

Huge Attendance Features Opening Day Program of Annual Event.

FINE ANIMALS ENTERED

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., Aug. 28.—The higgest crowd that ever witnessed the opening day of a Warrenton show was in attendance today at the thirtieth annual first day exhibition. Ideal weather and turf conditions that were practically perfect tended to make the first day most successful. The early morning was devoted to judging the loxhound classes and the showing of thoroughbred and halfbred yearlings and hunters shown in hand.

The first pony class of the day was notly contested, the blue finally going to the Benton Stables' Comet, over Ellile Wood Ketth's Rube, with the Sydnor pony, Miss Woodford, third. The saddle horse class presented some very high type horses. Marse Henry and Marcorita, shown by Mr. and Mrs. Guitar, annexed the blue and yellow awards. It was a popular win with the grand stand. Lodge Bowles took the red with his gray mare, Blue Step.

Thirty-four good jumpers fought it out for the free for all handicap. R. H. R. Blickle's U Win finally took the blue from Capt. Carpenter's Jump Up the River. Magician was third. This class was remarkable for the number of good performances. Little Ellie Wood Keith won the blue in the 20ny jumping class with her well known Sinbad. Miss Woodford, the property of Florence and Eugens Systems. snown Sinbad. Miss Woodford, the property of Florence and Eugene Sycor, was awarded second place. Rock Arden, Mrs. D. N. Lee's bay gelding, well riden by Edward Barker, was the judges' choice in the lightweight hunters. Miss Corley's Princess Royal was given the red ribbon in this class, with Miss Elizabeth Nesbit's Sportshan third.

with Miss Elizabeth Nesbit's Sportsman third.

In the second saddle-horse class of the day for registered thoroughbreds, Opequon was the winner, owned and tidden by Miss Mallory Davis. The most colorful class of the day was the pack class for the best pack of five couples of American fox hounds from recognized hunt to be shown by master and huntsman or whip in full aunting regalia. Four packs contest-id for the handsome sliver bowl presented by William Skinker and Sterling Larabee.

The packs were heraided by the tilvery notes of two Army buglers. The silver plate and blue ribbon snally went to Orange County Hunt. With Hunting Hills Kennels second, and Warrenton Hunt Club third. The hudges' award did not meet with the approval of the spectators who appeared to be of the opinion that the Warrenton drag hounds, beautifully shown by Mr. and Mrs. William H. Emory, should have been given the secision. They volced their disapproval in no uncertain manner. The imory pack caught the fancy of the topulace. Forty-five showed in the toylice hunter's class, Ray Norton's buckeye finally getting the award. Itss Edith Nesbit's Squiffy was second and Frost Anderson's Jumping Jack, hird. Every class was run off on scheduled lime. One or two falls, none serious, securred during the day. The judging, on the whole, was good. All the judging has been completed at the fair. Annapolis, Md., Aug. 28.—Four hundred and eighty midshipmen of the second class today ended their summer course in aeronautics and flight tactics. Tomorrow they will go on leave for a month, returning for the opening of the Academy's regular term October 1.

Instruction in aviation became a regular part of the Academy curricula during the last few years. And one of the upper classes is detained here every summer for intensive work, rather than being detailed for the summer practice cruise with the rest of the student body.

Commander Dewitt C. Ramsay was senior officer in charge of the course, and besides himself, there were fifteen other officer pilots in the corps of instructors. Each student midshipman received five hours of actual instruction in the air.

Commander Ramsay said the most gratifying feature of all, however, was that the course was completed with only one forced landing and not a casualty of any kind. pecial to The Washington Pos

Due to the prolonged drought in this section, garden and field crops have not provided many exhibition specimens, but the class for the best peck of potatoes has already brought in more than 100 entries.

Aside from the usual county fair events, several have been added. L. P. Nelson, local business man, has offered a wild goat to the boy who can catch it. The goat will be released about noon Labor Day and the chase will continue until he is caught. Several of the boys have gone into training for this event, practicing both running and tackling.
